

LANSDOWNE SCHOOL NEWSLETTER

This week the Art Department have arranged a special event for students in 12EM. A Turner Prize nominated artist called Monster Chetwynd delivered virtual Art lessons to the group. More on that from the Art Department, later in the newsletter!

The virtual world has presented many opportunities to us and I am looking forward to hosting school council through the google platform now that we have all our students back. We have also been holding virtual staff meetings and we have a virtual staff briefing every morning. Additionally, classes have enjoyed creating videos for our Friday assemblies that can be broadcast to the whole of the school.

We are now requiring students to attend in full school uniform. We feel this is important now we are all back and since we made this announcement it has been wonderful to see our students dressed smartly in their uniform, ready for the day's learning.

meeting a famous artist

Year 12 students had the opportunity to take part in a shadow puppet workshop delivered remotely by the Turner Prize Nominee Artist Monster Chetwynd, in partnership with Studio Voltaire. Students showed their excitement in meeting a famous artist, and were very engaged in setting up their own individual theatre box and creating character figures of their own choice for the collective theatre show at the end of the workshop.
