

LANDSDOWNE SCHOOL NEWSLETTER

This week we had our independent Careers Advisor in to work with year 11 students as they look to plan for their futures. 8KW and 10GG were given an informative talk by the managing director of an advertising agency as part of our plan to give our students access to employers. There were two trips for Year 10 to see Anthony Gormley's work at the Royal Academy. The final Dramatic maths workshop took place in the laboratory as the focus this week was on capacity. Our Winter Fayre preparations continue with another parents' coffee morning today. I am very excited for 8VP and 9LT as their Winter Window designs will be unveiled at Squire and Partners after school today – but more on that next week!

what we learned this week

Science

Year 12 have made model eyes as part of their science enrichment course. We used papier mâché to make them and fitted them with lenses, an iris and corneas. We then used straws to represent the blood vessels and optic nerve leaving the back of the eye.

where we were this week

The Royal Academy of Arts

The year 10 students had the opportunity to visit the Royal Academy of Arts to see Antony Gormley's Exhibition. Students experienced artworks which won't be on show this same way again and immersed themselves in art rooms that made them feel 'butterflies in their bellies'. Students also had the chance to visit the RA's permanent collection which includes John Constable's work and a copy of the Last Supper, and visited PACE Gallery for its large hypnotising screens.
